PROFILE

I am a creative, commercially focused content marketing and communications professional with decades of experience delivering high-impact editorial, digital and marketing content for internationally recognised brands including Canon Europe, Bonhams, LVMH (Glenmorangie), GN Group (Jabra) and numerous publishing organisations.

An accomplished editor, journalist, copywriter, photographer and creative strategist, I have extensive experience developing integrated content strategies that build audiences, strengthen brands and support commercial growth across print, digital, social media and video channels.

Equally comfortable leading editorial teams, producing executive-level copy, creating digital campaigns or directing visual storytelling, I combine strategic thinking with exceptional writing and creative skills to produce engaging content that delivers measurable business results.

Over my career I have interviewed internationally renowned photographers, created content for global technology brands, led editorial teams, directed photography, produced marketing campaigns, developed communications strategies and managed publishing operations.
